Audiences on both sides of the Atlantic have been delighted by the Baltimore Consort, referred to by the Washington Post as a “rambunctious sextet,” known for their lively renditions of Renaissance tunes. The group began in 1980 and has toured all regions of the United States and made frequent appearances in Europe, holding residencies at the Walters Art Gallery and the Peabody Conservatory of Music in Baltimore, as well as the Piccolo Spoleto Festival in Charleston, South Carolina. Performances on syndicated radio programs such as Performance Today, St. Paul Sunday, Millennium of Music, Harmonia and Onstage (CBS) have broadcast their music around the world. Their CD’s have earned a place on the Billboard Magazine Top-Ten list. The Consort's arrangements of early music from England, Scotland, France, Italy, and Spain speak to the heart as well as the mind, and their love for the early music of English/Scottish heritage has led them to delve into the rich trove of traditional balladry and dance tunes preserved in the Appalachian Mountains and Nova Scotia.
